

SOCIETY OF ACTUARIES

Article from:

The Actuary

July/August 1989 – Volume 23, No. 7

PRIME MINISTER PREMIER MINISTRE

On behalf of the Government of Canada, I would like to convey my warmest greetings and sincere best wishes to the member groups of the Consortium of Actuarial Societies in North America as you commemorate the 100th Anniversary of your profession on this continent.

As our world becomes more complex, industries and businesses are responding to the challenges before them through modernization, by developing new strategies, and implementing effective management practices. Incumbent to a successful enterprise, actuaries will continue to play a leading role in planning for a secure and prosperous future.

Even as you celebrate your accomplishments, you are looking to the future. In the best tradition of actuaries, during 1989 you are undertaking many activities to exchange ideas and information.

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the membership of the Consortium of Actuarial Societies in North America during your centennial, and to wish you all the best as you embark on your second century of service.

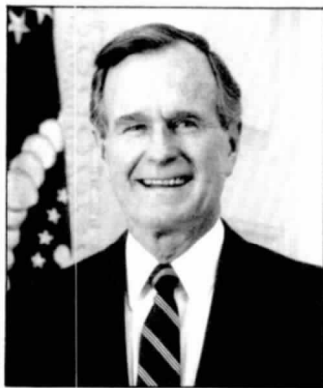

Brian Mulroney

OTTAWA
1989

Prime Minister
Brian Mulroney

PM, President send anniversary greetings

President
George Bush

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

May 12, 1989

I am delighted to welcome the many actuaries assembled in Washington to celebrate the centennial of your profession in the United States and Canada.

Keeping businesses solvent and helping individuals to plan for the future, you've made an important contribution to North America's economic progress and financial security. Your training in mathematics, finance, and statistics has helped government and corporate leaders alike to develop effective marketing strategies and economic policies. You can be very proud of what actuaries have accomplished since 1889. I am certain your fine profession will continue to grow in the years to come.

Barbara joins me in congratulating you on this milestone anniversary. We wish you a productive meeting and continued success in the future. God bless you.

George Bush