

Credibility Models: An Estimating Function Approach

Harry H. Panjer
Department of Statistics and Actuarial Science
University of Waterloo
Waterloo, Ontario

David X. Li (Presenter)
University of Waterloo and
Warrent Center for Actuarial Studies and Research
Faculty of Management
University of Manitoba
Winnipeg, Canada

Abstract

This paper gives a unified approach to modern credibility models by using the theory of estimating functions. Previous credibility models, such as Bulhmann-Straub model, Jewell's hierarchical model, Hachemeister's regression model can all be obtained by this method. New models to incorporate higher-order moments and changing conditional variance are suggested.

