CRAIG S. KALMAN, FSA, MAAA, FHFMA
Session 4B: Diversity & Inclusion in Actuarial Employment
June 9, 2020
Active participation in the Society of Actuaries is an important aspect of membership. While the positive contributions of professional societies and associations are well-recognized and encouraged, association activities are vulnerable to close antitrust scrutiny. By their very nature, associations bring together industry competitors and other market participants.

The United States antitrust laws aim to protect consumers by preserving the free economy and prohibiting anti-competitive business practices; they promote competition. There are both state and federal antitrust laws, although state antitrust laws closely follow federal law. The Sherman Act is the primary U.S. antitrust law pertaining to association activities. The Sherman Act prohibits every contract, combination or conspiracy that places an unreasonable restraint on trade. There are, however, some activities that are illegal under all circumstances, such as price fixing, market allocation and collusive bidding.

There is no safe harbor under the antitrust law for professional association activities. Therefore, association meeting participants should refrain from discussing any activity that could potentially be construed as having an anti-competitive effect. Discussions relating to product or service pricing, market allocations, membership restrictions, product standardization or other conditions on trade could arguably be perceived as a restraint on trade and may expose the SOA and its members to antitrust enforcement procedures.

While participating in all SOA in person meetings, webinars, teleconferences or side discussions, you should avoid discussing competitively sensitive information with competitors and follow these guidelines:

- Do not discuss prices for services or products or anything else that might affect prices
- Do not discuss what you or other entities plan to do in a particular geographic or product markets or with particular customers.
- Do not speak on behalf of the SOA or any of its committees unless specifically authorized to do so.
- Do leave a meeting where any anticompetitive pricing or market allocation discussion occurs.
- Do alert SOA staff and/or legal counsel to any concerning discussions
- Do consult with legal counsel before raising any matter or making a statement that may involve competitively sensitive information.

Adherence to these guidelines involves not only avoidance of antitrust violations, but avoidance of behavior which might be so construed. These guidelines only provide an overview of prohibited activities. SOA legal counsel reviews meeting agenda and materials as deemed appropriate and any discussion that departs from the formal agenda should be scrutinized carefully. Antitrust compliance is everyone’s responsibility; however, please seek legal counsel if you have any questions or concerns.
Presentation Disclaimer

Presentations are intended for educational purposes only and do not replace independent professional judgment. Statements of fact and opinions expressed are those of the participants individually and, unless expressly stated to the contrary, are not the opinion or position of the Society of Actuaries, its cosponsors or its committees. The Society of Actuaries does not endorse or approve, and assumes no responsibility for, the content, accuracy or completeness of the information presented. Attendees should note that the sessions are audio-recorded and may be published in various media, including print, audio and video formats without further notice.
DISABILITY AWARENESS

• Focus from a diabetic’s perspective

• Resources

• COVID-19 considerations
MEDICATIONS

• Medications and technology continue to evolve
  • This includes non-insulin injectibles

• Medication discount cards are helpful to the patient
  • But they also have implications to drug tiering
WORKPLACE ACCOMMODATIONS

• Pre-planning how to handle blood sugar lows

• Special ergonomic items for neuropathy
  • Keyboard
  • Mouse or trackball
  • Wrist rest
DISABILITY WORKPLACE RESOURCES

• Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)
  • Reasonable accommodations

• Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA)
COVID-19 CONSIDERATIONS

• Diabetics
  • Change in routines can impact blood sugar levels
    • What happens may be counter-intuitive

• Everyone: Emotional wellness considerations
  • Transition to working from home and returning to office
  • Family members also impacted
    • Competing for space
    • If someone is temporarily furloughed
Agenda

- Disability Awareness
- Diabetic’s Perspective
- COVID-19 Considerations
ROLANDE MBATCHOU
Session 4, Diversity & Inclusion in Actuarial Employment
June 9th 2020
SOCIETY OF ACTUARIES
Antitrust Compliance Guidelines

Active participation in the Society of Actuaries is an important aspect of membership. While the positive contributions of professional societies and associations are well-recognized and encouraged, association activities are vulnerable to close antitrust scrutiny. By their very nature, associations bring together industry competitors and other market participants.

The United States antitrust laws aim to protect consumers by preserving the free economy and prohibiting anti-competitive business practices; they promote competition. There are both state and federal antitrust laws, although state antitrust laws closely follow federal law. The Sherman Act, is the primary U.S. antitrust law pertaining to association activities. The Sherman Act prohibits every contract, combination or conspiracy that places an unreasonable restraint on trade. There are, however, some activities that are illegal under all circumstances, such as price fixing, market allocation and collusive bidding.

There is no safe harbor under the antitrust law for professional association activities. Therefore, association meeting participants should refrain from discussing any activity that could potentially be construed as having an anti-competitive effect. Discussions relating to product or service pricing, market allocations, membership restrictions, product standardization or other conditions on trade could arguably be perceived as a restraint on trade and may expose the SOA and its members to antitrust enforcement procedures.

While participating in all SOA in person meetings, webinars, teleconferences or side discussions, you should avoid discussing competitively sensitive information with competitors and follow these guidelines:

- Do not discuss prices for services or products or anything else that might affect prices
- Do not discuss what you or other entities plan to do in a particular geographic or product markets or with particular customers.
- Do not speak on behalf of the SOA or any of its committees unless specifically authorized to do so.
- Do leave a meeting where any anticompetitive pricing or market allocation discussion occurs.
- Do alert SOA staff and/or legal counsel to any concerning discussions
- Do consult with legal counsel before raising any matter or making a statement that may involve competitively sensitive information.

Adherence to these guidelines involves not only avoidance of antitrust violations, but avoidance of behavior which might be so construed. These guidelines only provide an overview of prohibited activities. SOA legal counsel reviews meeting agenda and materials as deemed appropriate and any discussion that departs from the formal agenda should be scrutinized carefully. Antitrust compliance is everyone’s responsibility; however, please seek legal counsel if you have any questions or concerns.
Presentation Disclaimer

Presentations are intended for educational purposes only and do not replace independent professional judgment. Statements of fact and opinions expressed are those of the participants individually and, unless expressly stated to the contrary, are not the opinion or position of the Society of Actuaries, its cosponsors or its committees. The Society of Actuaries does not endorse or approve, and assumes no responsibility for, the content, accuracy or completeness of the information presented. Attendees should note that the sessions are audio-recorded and may be published in various media, including print, audio and video formats without further notice.
Advocating for Diversity & Inclusion
“The anxiety that causes you to hold back costs your business. It harms your relationship with employees who wonder if there are better opportunities elsewhere — and it undermines your leadership.” (Meritage Effective Leadership, 2018)
Diversity & Inclusion Defined

• Diversity is all of the differences that make up who we are

!Diverse group of people

• Inclusion is creating the environment where everyone feels respected, connected, valued, and able to bring their authentic selves to work to better serve customers/clients.
Facilitating Diversity & Inclusion Sessions in My Team

My Authentic Self, Rolande Mbatchou:

1. I am French by birth, Cameroonian by origin (with an accent)
2. I am married to a Nigerian man
3. I am a woman of color and culture
4. I am 24 at heart
5. I am a Christian
6. I am still healing from a knee injury
7. I am passionate about social justice due to my upbringing
8. I am an Actuary, and I have always been a minority in my field
9. I am the product of people believing in me
10. I love to motivate others
Being Aware of Unconscious Bias

- Affinity bias – Focus on ‘culture add’ rather than ‘culture fit’
- Confirmation bias – Focus on skills not just ‘background’
- Conformity bias – Avoid peer pressure
- Gender bias – Hold your company accountable to equitable hiring
- Ageism – Debunk myths about workers of different ages
- Name bias – Beware of preferring names that are of Anglo origin
- Beauty/Height bias – ‘Beauty’ or Height does not highlight competencies
- The halo effect – ‘Privileges’ should not be the basis for comparison
Practical Steps to Developing an Appreciation for Diversity

• Support your company Diversity & Inclusion efforts
• Facilitate a Diversity & Inclusion session in your team
• Join an ‘unfamiliar’ Business Resource Group
• Invite someone new to lunch or coffee
• Attend events organized by the International Association of Black Actuaries (IABA), Organization of Latino Actuaries (OLA), or the SOA D&I related events
MARGARET RESCE MILKINT
Diversity and Inclusion in Actuarial Employment
June 9, 2020
Active participation in the Society of Actuaries is an important aspect of membership. While the positive contributions of professional societies and associations are well-recognized and encouraged, association activities are vulnerable to close antitrust scrutiny. By their very nature, associations bring together industry competitors and other market participants.

The United States antitrust laws aim to protect consumers by preserving the free economy and prohibiting anti-competitive business practices; they promote competition. There are both state and federal antitrust laws, although state antitrust laws closely follow federal law. The Sherman Act, is the primary U.S. antitrust law pertaining to association activities. The Sherman Act prohibits every contract, combination or conspiracy that places an unreasonable restraint on trade. There are, however, some activities that are illegal under all circumstances, such as price fixing, market allocation and collusive bidding.

There is no safe harbor under the antitrust law for professional association activities. Therefore, association meeting participants should refrain from discussing any activity that could potentially be construed as having an anti-competitive effect. Discussions relating to product or service pricing, market allocations, membership restrictions, product standardization or other conditions on trade could arguably be perceived as a restraint on trade and may expose the SOA and its members to antitrust enforcement procedures.

While participating in all SOA in person meetings, webinars, teleconferences or side discussions, you should avoid discussing competitively sensitive information with competitors and follow these guidelines:

- Do not discuss prices for services or products or anything else that might affect prices
- Do not discuss what you or other entities plan to do in a particular geographic or product markets or with particular customers.
- Do not speak on behalf of the SOA or any of its committees unless specifically authorized to do so.
- Do leave a meeting where any anticompetitive pricing or market allocation discussion occurs.
- Do alert SOA staff and/or legal counsel to any concerning discussions
- Do consult with legal counsel before raising any matter or making a statement that may involve competitively sensitive information.

Adherence to these guidelines involves not only avoidance of antitrust violations, but avoidance of behavior which might be so construed. These guidelines only provide an overview of prohibited activities. SOA legal counsel reviews meeting agenda and materials as deemed appropriate and any discussion that departs from the formal agenda should be scrutinized carefully. Antitrust compliance is everyone’s responsibility; however, please seek legal counsel if you have any questions or concerns.
Presentation Disclaimer

Presentations are intended for educational purposes only and do not replace independent professional judgment. Statements of fact and opinions expressed are those of the participants individually and, unless expressly stated to the contrary, are not the opinion or position of the Society of Actuaries, its cosponsors or its committees. The Society of Actuaries does not endorse or approve, and assumes no responsibility for, the content, accuracy or completeness of the information presented. Attendees should note that the sessions are audio-recorded and may be published in various media, including print, audio and video formats without further notice.
The Need for Diversity

“A diverse mix of voices leads to better discussions, decisions and outcomes for everyone.”

— Sundar Pichai, Chief Executive Officer at Google
Demystifying Diversity

- Race
- Ethnicity
- Gender
- Physical abilities
- Socio-economic status
- Religious beliefs
- Age
- Sexual orientation
- Political beliefs
- Location
Diversity as a Business Priority

Increased revenue and market share
Better customer retention
Improved employee satisfaction and engagement
Enhanced team performance
Diversity, equity and inclusion should be top of mind. Disparities are especially apparent during a pandemic.
Engaging with Non-industry Talent

Professionals from other industries are able to provide fresh perspectives and skillsets. External talent can promote rapid innovation and digital transformation.
Connecting Across Geography

Leverage remote work to counteract location bias and continue reaching new talent.
Consider location and access an element of diversity.
Developing an Inclusive Hiring Process

Create gender-neutral job descriptions.
Utilize blind or team interviews when possible.
Conduct regular pay equity analyses and base pay on positions, not people.
Creating a Culture of Belonging

Embrace differences in employee experiences and values across the organization.

Support honest conversations and encourage feedback.
Consider diversity a business priority.
Champion justice and equity.
Engage with non-industry talent.
Connect with geographically-diverse candidates.
Develop inclusive interviewing and hiring processes.
Promote a culture of inclusion and belonging.
“We are all navigating this new normal together. As we lock arms virtually and try to help one another in the ways we can, our vast world suddenly feels a little smaller and a lot more connected. And for that, we are grateful.”

— Michael Dell, CEO of Dell
Thank you!

Margaret Resce Milkint
Managing Partner
The Jacobson Group
+ 1 (312) 884-0410
mmilkint@jacobsononline.com

Download today’s slides here: jcbsn.gr/SOAHealth.
DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION IN ACTUARIAL EMPLOYMENT

Sara Teppema, FSA, MAAA, FCA; Session 4
June 9, 2020
Active participation in the Society of Actuaries is an important aspect of membership. While the positive contributions of professional societies and associations are well-recognized and encouraged, association activities are vulnerable to close antitrust scrutiny. By their very nature, associations bring together industry competitors and other market participants.

The United States antitrust laws aim to protect consumers by preserving the free economy and prohibiting anti-competitive business practices; they promote competition. There are both state and federal antitrust laws, although state antitrust laws closely follow federal law. The Sherman Act, is the primary U.S. antitrust law pertaining to association activities. The Sherman Act prohibits every contract, combination or conspiracy that places an unreasonable restraint on trade. There are, however, some activities that are illegal under all circumstances, such as price fixing, market allocation and collusive bidding.

There is no safe harbor under the antitrust law for professional association activities. Therefore, association meeting participants should refrain from discussing any activity that could potentially be construed as having an anti-competitive effect. Discussions relating to product or service pricing, market allocations, membership restrictions, product standardization or other conditions on trade could arguably be perceived as a restraint on trade and may expose the SOA and its members to antitrust enforcement procedures.

While participating in all SOA in person meetings, webinars, teleconferences or side discussions, you should avoid discussing competitively sensitive information with competitors and follow these guidelines:

- Do not discuss prices for services or products or anything else that might affect prices.
- Do not discuss what you or other entities plan to do in a particular geographic or product markets or with particular customers.
- Do not speak on behalf of the SOA or any of its committees unless specifically authorized to do so.
- Do leave a meeting where any anticompetitive pricing or market allocation discussion occurs.
- Do alert SOA staff and/or legal counsel to any concerning discussions.
- Do consult with legal counsel before raising any matter or making a statement that may involve competitively sensitive information.

Adherence to these guidelines involves not only avoidance of antitrust violations, but avoidance of behavior which might be so construed. These guidelines only provide an overview of prohibited activities. SOA legal counsel reviews meeting agenda and materials as deemed appropriate and any discussion that departs from the formal agenda should be scrutinized carefully. Antitrust compliance is everyone’s responsibility; however, please seek legal counsel if you have any questions or concerns.
Presentation Disclaimer

Presentations are intended for educational purposes only and do not replace independent professional judgment. Statements of fact and opinions expressed are those of the participants individually and, unless expressly stated to the contrary, are not the opinion or position of the Society of Actuaries, its cosponsors or its committees. The Society of Actuaries does not endorse or approve, and assumes no responsibility for, the content, accuracy or completeness of the information presented. Attendees should note that the sessions are audio-recorded and may be published in various media, including print, audio and video formats without further notice.
The CAS/SOA Joint Committee for Inclusion, Equity and Diversity (JCIED) works to promote:

- Our profession as the STEM career of choice for candidates of all perspectives, experiences and backgrounds
- A strong sense of belonging such that our members fully contribute to advance the profession
- Equitable opportunity for education, research and leadership for our stakeholders
Resources

• The Joint CAS/SOA Committee for Inclusion, Equity and Diversity
• Your employer’s Employee Resource Groups
• International Association of Black Actuaries
• Organization of Latino Actuaries
• SOA Women’s Forum
MARY VOLLKOMMER

Session 4, Diversity & Inclusion in Actuarial Employment

June 9th 2020
SOCIETY OF ACTUARIES
Antitrust Compliance Guidelines

Active participation in the Society of Actuaries is an important aspect of membership. While the positive contributions of professional societies and associations are well-recognized and encouraged, association activities are vulnerable to close antitrust scrutiny. By their very nature, associations bring together industry competitors and other market participants.

The United States antitrust laws aim to protect consumers by preserving the free economy and prohibiting anti-competitive business practices; they promote competition. There are both state and federal antitrust laws, although state antitrust laws closely follow federal law. The Sherman Act, is the primary U.S. antitrust law pertaining to association activities. The Sherman Act prohibits every contract, combination or conspiracy that places an unreasonable restraint on trade. There are, however, some activities that are illegal under all circumstances, such as price fixing, market allocation and collusive bidding.

There is no safe harbor under the antitrust law for professional association activities. Therefore, association meeting participants should refrain from discussing any activity that could potentially be construed as having an anti-competitive effect. Discussions relating to product or service pricing, market allocations, membership restrictions, product standardization or other conditions on trade could arguably be perceived as a restraint on trade and may expose the SOA and its members to antitrust enforcement procedures.

While participating in all SOA in person meetings, webinars, teleconferences or side discussions, you should avoid discussing competitively sensitive information with competitors and follow these guidelines:

- Do not discuss prices for services or products or anything else that might affect prices
- Do not discuss what you or other entities plan to do in a particular geographic or product markets or with particular customers.
- Do not speak on behalf of the SOA or any of its committees unless specifically authorized to do so.
- Do leave a meeting where any anticompetitive pricing or market allocation discussion occurs.
- Do alert SOA staff and/or legal counsel to any concerning discussions
- Do consult with legal counsel before raising any matter or making a statement that may involve competitively sensitive information.

Adherence to these guidelines involves not only avoidance of antitrust violations, but avoidance of behavior which might be so construed. These guidelines only provide an overview of prohibited activities. SOA legal counsel reviews meeting agenda and materials as deemed appropriate and any discussion that departs from the formal agenda should be scrutinized carefully. Antitrust compliance is everyone’s responsibility; however, please seek legal counsel if you have any questions or concerns.
Presentation Disclaimer

Presentations are intended for educational purposes only and do not replace independent professional judgment. Statements of fact and opinions expressed are those of the participants individually and, unless expressly stated to the contrary, are not the opinion or position of the Society of Actuaries, its cosponsors or its committees. The Society of Actuaries does not endorse or approve, and assumes no responsibility for, the content, accuracy or completeness of the information presented. Attendees should note that the sessions are audio-recorded and may be published in various media, including print, audio and video formats without further notice.
INCLUSION: Diversity, the New Workplace & the Will to Change
Jennifer Brown
Inclusion is the flip side of Diversity

• Recruiting diverse talent doesn’t automatically mean diverse talent will stay or contribute

• It’s not enough to be “color blind” – we must make sure that we have an inclusive environment that enables everyone to contribute

• The ability to lead inclusively is a top leadership competency

• I have relied heavily on Jennifer Brown, INCLUSION: Diversity, The New Workplace & the Will to Change (Publish Your Purpose Press, 2016). All errors and bad jokes are my own.

• Creating an inclusive environment is a journey – not a 15 minute presentation
INCLUSION respects all people’s inherent differences equally

• Treat others as they would like to be treated – the answer is different for everyone
• Understand that other’s experiences are different – but just as valid as your own
• You need to understand your own lens, and then view the world through the lenses of others
Unconscious biases and unexamined cultural values affect everything

• Providing the same starting line for all employees does not mean that everyone starts from the same place

• It is essential to understand how employees get to the starting line in the first place

• There are many tools to help you understand unconscious bias
Four Stages of Inclusion*

Welcomed
Valued
Respected
Heard

Four Tools of Inclusive Leadership*

- Welcomed
- Valued
- Respected
- Heard

Meaningful Work
Great Managers
Inclusive Culture
Trusted Leadership

*Jennifer Brown, INCLUSION: Diversity, The New Workplace & the Will to Change (Publish Your Purpose Press, 2016)
Customize onboarding, and continue to check in periodically on engagement.

Solicit and consider new ideas; reward process improvements.

Encourage colleagues to bring more of their full selves to work.

Learn and use people’s names and know the job they do.

Jennifer Brown, INCLUSION: Diversity, The New Workplace & the Will to Change (Publish Your Purpose Press, 2016)
VALUED

Meaningful Work
Offer visible assignments; intentionally leverage skills

Great Managers
Provide clear, concise, specific timely feedback; rally membership or teams toward aligned goals

Inclusive Culture
Utilize ERGs as an employee referral resource, thus enabling more diverse candidate slates

Trusted Leadership
Lead by walking around; speak with and get to know ERG members and other champions

*Jennifer Brown, INCLUSION: Diversity, The New Workplace & the Will to Change (Publish Your Purpose Press, 2016)
Give credit where it is due, and promote successes as visibly as possible.

Offer to coach ERG leaders; invest in skills and advancement.

Understand work and family balance; encourage utilization of flex policies.

Demonstrate openly that you care about who people are and what they do.

HEARD

Meaningful Work
Share employee success stories

Great Managers
Implement new ideas; give credit; ask for feedback

Inclusive Culture
Collect and share feedback regularly about a job well done to supervisors and executives

Trusted Leadership
Participate regularly in diversity initiatives; mention in communications what you learn from what you hear

*Jennifer Brown, INCLUSION: Diversity, The New Workplace & the Will to Change (Publish Your Purpose Press, 2016)
Five Simple Truths about Diversity & Inclusion

• Change is hard
• Equity is good for people and for business
• Most of a company’s untapped diversity & inclusion knowledge is in the middle and entry levels
• Workplace diversity & inclusion means respecting all people’s inherent differences equally
• Unconscious biases and unexamined cultural values and standards affect everything
Simple things to do tomorrow

• Take unconscious bias test

• Put yourself in situations where you are confronted with examples different from yourself

• Mark your calendar for important cross-cultural dates
  • Yom Kippur, Diwali, Ramadan, Eastern Orthodox Easter and Lunar New Year
  • Text those who celebrate these holidays and offer appropriate wishes - “I see you”

• Write down all the things you needed to get to your current position – is this career advice still valid?
Things to do Next Week

• Schedule Skip level meetings into your organization – “I hear you”

• Look for Cross-Identity Mutual Mentoring

• Review your project teams – do teams have a diversity of talent/personalities/backgrounds

• Watch who is talking at meetings? Are you giving diverse talent an opportunity to participate? Are you supporting them when they do?

• Participate in Corporate Employee Resource Groups – even if you don’t fit neatly into one of the categories.